NEW ARMY READY IN TEN DAYS

England to Send 500,000 More Men to Reinforce Troops Now on the Continent

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Half a million Russian soldiers, said to consist mostly of Cossack cavalry, are said to have been landed at Ostend recently, according to circumstantial stories here today. Confirmation is refused at the war office.

The Czar's army is said to have been transported from Archangel to Aberdeen, Scotland, and to have been transhipped there for Ostend, now in possession of British marines.

The fact that much of this force is said to be Cossack cavalry is regarded as significant, as this arm is badly needed if an attempt is to be made to cut the German lines which extend from northern Belgium to Paris. It is admitted in dispatches from Ostend that all foreigners have been ordered to leave that town, and this report adds to the belief that important developments can be expected in that vicinity in the near future.

With recruiting generally simulated by a nonpartisan mass meeting today at Guild hall, it was confidently asserted Earl Kitchener's new army of 500,000 men will be complete in another ten days. The news that Paris will probably be invested within the next day or two, has brought home to Englishmen generally the imminence of the "German peril" and many who heretofore held back are flocking to the colors.

Meanwhile, all news regarding the actual situation in the field is withheld. The war office has issued no statement since early yesterday.

Germans Are in Force and Petrograd Admits Their Artillery Is Superior

PETROGRAD, Sept. 4.—The Russian armies are today fighting along an entirely new line of battle line. In Russian Poland, where the Austrians left wing are heavily reinforced by Germans, the fighting is of the most serious character. The Russians are content to remain on the defensive until the additional reinforcements now being sent forward arrive.

In Austria the Russians are on the offensive and the Austrians have been pushed back toward the

Germans Send Artillery
VIENNA, Via Rome, Sept. 4.—The German artillery has been sent to the aid of the hard pressed Austrian forces operating in Galicia. Information received here today says that a number of batteries of crack German artillery are now approaching the front. It is stated that the announcement of these reinforcements has greatly heartened the Austrian troops.

San River. They are concentrating on Przemyśl, where another great battle is certain.

Cossacks Lead Advance
The advance of the Russians through Galicia is declared to be extremely rapid. The Cossacks are sweeping the country before the infantry, falling back whenever strong positions are located. Russian cavalry has deliberately violated the rules of safety in charging entrenched Austrian positions but by doing so has terrorized the enemy. The official report says, and as a result the opposition has lost much of its forcefulness.

The general staff issued a statement today reviewing the general situation which was everywhere characterized as excellent. It is stated that the operations in East Prussia are again being forced, although the Germans are in great force. It is admitted the German artillery has so far proven superior to the Russian but it is also stated that additional artillery is now being sent into action.

The war office announces today the result of the fighting on September 1 between Lubin and Kholm. It stated that the Austrians attacked the Russian center and were repulsed with the loss of several thousand men and many rapid fire guns.

Official Report of Capture
The official report of the capture of Lemberg on Wednesday as received from Grand Duke Nicholas was made public today. It says: "With extreme joy, and thanking God, I announce to your majesty that our victorious army, under Gen. Ruzsky entered Lemberg at 11 o'clock this morning. The army of Gen. Brussaloff has occupied Halicz. I beg your majesty to confer the fourth class of the Order of St. George on Gen. Ruzsky and the same order on Gen. Brussaloff."

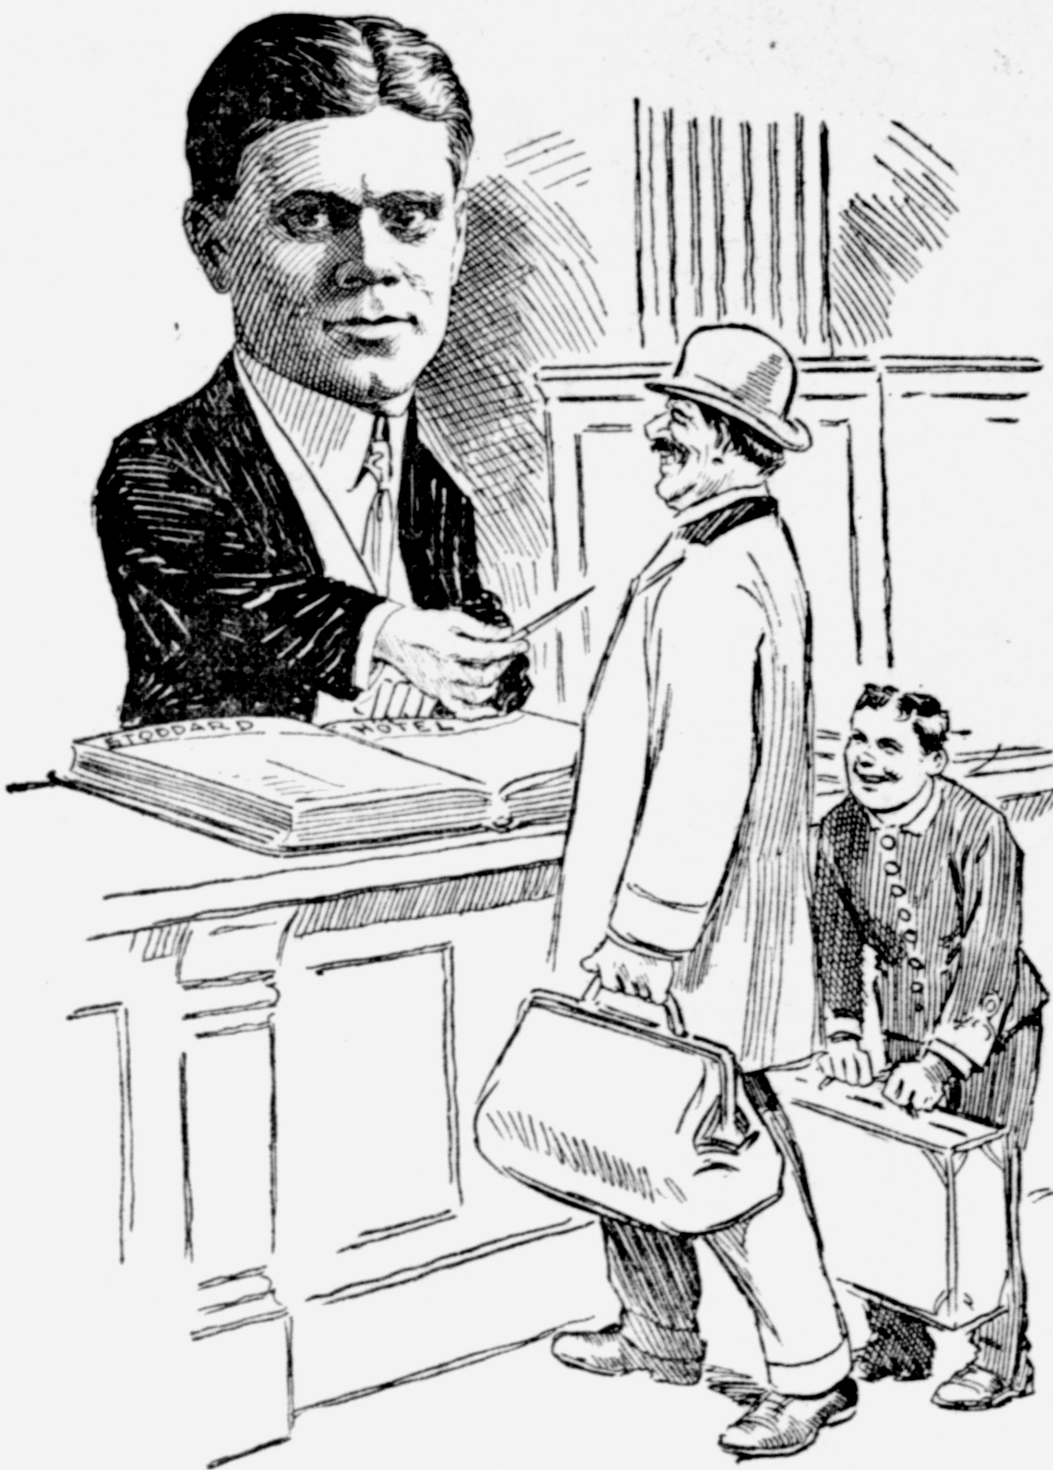

It was stated at the war office that the entire Austrian army is now in grave danger of complete annihilation. In Galicia the fighting forces are reported as almost exhausted by reason of the continued assault, and in their retreat have abandoned enormous quantities of supplies, and guns of all description.

Hold Northern Galicia
The war office, in reviewing the Austrian Galicia from the border to the San river defenses is now held by the Russians. In addition another Russian force is now operating south of the Dniester river. It is stated that heavy reinforcements are constantly going forward.

NEW POPE IS OF ITALIAN NOBILITY

Benedictus XV Is Entitled to Call Himself Marchese but Has Never Used Title

SMALL IN STATURE AND MODEST

While Archbishop He Was Often Mistaken for Poor Priest Because of Simple Dress

BY HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Sept. 4.—From peasantry to nobility, the fisherman's ring has passed in the election of Cardinal Della Chiesa as pope, succeeding his holiness, Pope Pius X. Pope Benedict XV, as the archbishop of Bologna is henceforth to be known, comes of a noble family. His father had the title of marchese and though the son also enjoyed the title, he never used it and found his greatest pleasure in administering to the poor and needy.

Pope Benedict XV is physically the smallest man ever elected to the throne of St. Peter. He is very near-sighted and wears glasses. The mind which will direct the affairs of the church in the coming years is such as commanded the admiration and respect of the famous Cardinal Rampolla, secretary of state during the pontificate of Pope Leo XIII.

A brother of the new pope is a retired admiral of the Italian navy. Another is a retired captain, but as his brothers gave their lives to Italy so did his holiness consecrate himself to the church. Of a deeply religious nature, when he lived in Rome he walked daily to celebrate the 5 o'clock morning mass. So simply was he dressed that he was often mistaken on the street for a poor priest seeking charity.

When he was appointed archbishop of Bologna, his new parishioners presented him with an automobile. The archbishop accepted the motor car, but in doing so declared that he would use it only for the benefit of the poor; he would ride in the automobile only on missions of charity and in attending to his parish duties.

May Evacuate City to Prevent Destruction by Bombardment Says Report

LONDON, Sept. 4.—A veiled suggestion that after all Paris might not be defended to the last man, reached London today. It was received with incredulity everywhere. In view of the declaration yesterday of Gen. Gallieni, the military governor of Paris, that he had been placed in supreme command of the city's defenses and would hold the city indefinitely against any force Germany might bring against it.

The report was sent by the Rouen correspondent of the Daily Chronicle and he stated that he has learned that the French were considering the advisability of not defending Paris, but might surrender it to the Germans to prevent the wholesale destruction of the city by a long continued bombardment and siege.

WAR TO DATE HAS COST MORE THAN BILLION DOLLARS

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The European war to date has cost the countries involved the vast total of $1,870,000,000. This total is based on figures of $55,000,000 loss a day estimated by the most eminent French and English statisticians.

The daily estimate of $55,000,000 included lost earning power, economic loss, loss by destruction of warships, destruction of ammunition, loss by normal bombardment of towns, economic loss through casualties, loss in animals and industrial and commercial loss. It does not include such abnormal losses as the destruction of Louvain which was approximately $100,000,000.

Sparta Senator Claims Opponent Violated the Corrupt Practices Act in Campaign

CIRCULATED ALLEGED FALSE STORY

Maintains He Inspired Articles in Sparta Paper Regarding Record of Incumbent Not True

Penalty Also Provides Fine or Imprisonment or Both; Owen Says He'll Prosecute the Case

Senator Howard Teasdale, Sparta, defeated by J. Henry Bennett, Viroqua, for the Republican senatorial nomination in the district composed of Monroe, Jackson and Vernon counties, within a few days may demand the arrest of Bennett for alleged violation of the corrupt practices act.

If found guilty Bennett will be disqualified to hold the office and is liable to fine or imprisonment or both.

Bennett's alleged offense consists, say friends of the Spartan, of publication and circulation of false statements regarding Mr. Teasdale's record while a member of the Wisconsin senate.

Claim False Statement

During the primary campaign, it is claimed, a statement appeared in a Sparta paper rehearsing what was alleged to be Teasdale's votes on bills before the state legislature. The article went into detail, even to naming pages in the senate journal where records of the senator's votes could be found.

Senator Teasdale, it is claimed, visited the editor of the newspaper in which the alleged untrue statements appeared, and secured from him an affidavit to the effect that the article was furnished and paid for by Mr. Bennett, Teasdale's opponent.

Bennett Was Warned

Following this, it is said, Teasdale went to Bennett in person, denied the truth of the statements and warned him against further circulation of the alleged untruths.

"I am examining the law," said Senator Teasdale today, "and am practically determined to prosecute Bennett." His act was a violation of the corrupt practices act.

WILSON APPEALS TO CONGRESS FOR WAR TAX BILL

Asks Imposition of Internal Revenue Tax to Bring in Hundred Million Dollars

NECESSARY AT ONCE HE SAYS

Declares Treasury Must Be Placed Beyond Public Question in Its Strength

SAYS BORROWING IS UNWISE

Would Have Bad Effect on the Money Market, Declares the President

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—President Wilson today in a special "address to the joint session of congress asked imposition of an internal revenue tax sufficient to raise $100,000,000 annually, because of dwindling customs revenues as a result of the European war.

The president said the "war tax" was necessary immediately to keep the treasury unimpaired and to place it beyond public question in strength. He emphatically said a bond issue would be unwise.

"We ought not to borrow," he said. "We ought to resort to taxation, however, we may regret the necessity of putting additional temporary burdens on our people."

Brooks No Delay

That an emergency which did not brook temporizing or delay, although not our making, exists and "we must accept the inevitable with calm judgment and unflinching spirits," was stated by the chief executive.

The president said in part: "Gentlemen of the Congress: I have come to you today to discharge a duty which I wish with all my heart I might have been spared; but it is a duty which is very clear, and therefore, I perform it without hesitation or apology. I come to ask very earnestly that additional revenue be provided for the government.

During the month of August there was, as compared with the corresponding month of last year, a falling off of $19,629,538 in the revenues collected from customs. A continuation of this decrease in the same proportion throughout the current fiscal year would probably mean a loss of customs revenues of from sixty to one hundred millions.

Dangerous to Create Doubt

It would be very dangerous in the present circumstances to create a moment's doubt as to the strength and sufficiency of the treasury of the United States; its ability to assist, to steady and sustain the financial operations of the country's business. If the treasury is known, or even thought to be weak, where will be our peace of mind? The whole industrial activity of the country would be chilled and demoralized.

"The treasury could get along for a considerable period, no doubt, without immediate resort to new sources of taxation. But at what cost to the business of the community? Approximately $75,000,000, a large part of the present treasury balance, is now on deposit with national banks distributed throughout the country. It is deposited, of course, on call. I need not point out to you what the probable consequences of inconvenience and distress and confusion would be if the diminishing income of the treasury should make it necessary to rapidly withdraw these deposits.

"And we ought not to borrow. We ought to resort to taxation, however we may regret the necessity of putting additional temporary burdens on our people. To sell bonds would be to make a most untimely and unjustifiable demand on the money market, untimely, because this is manifestly not the time to withdraw working capital from other uses to pay up the government's bills. The country is able to pay any just and reasonable taxes without distress. And to every other form of borrowing, whether for long periods or for short, there is the same objection.

"The occasion is not of our own making. We had no part in making it. But it affects us, and it is almost as if we were participants in the circumstances which gave rise to it. We must accept the inevitable with calm judgment and unflinching spirits, like men accustomed to deal with the unexpected, habituated to take care of themselves, masters of their own affairs and their own fortunes. We shall pay the bill, though we did not deliberately incur it.

Believed They Will Continue to Follow Allied Army Without Siege

FRENCH LOSSES WERE ENORMOUS

Officers Were Unable to Control Them at Amiens and They Repeatedly Charged Germans

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS... (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Sept. 4.—It is considered certain here today that the German attacking columns are already within a few miles of the outer ring of Paris forts. No civilians are permitted within the military district proper. The only information made public is the statement that the allied forces now hold the "line of the third defense."

One of the striking events of the last few hours has been the issuance of a manifesto by the socialist leaders calling on all members of the party and all citizens in general, to perform their duty in defense of Paris to the last.

Suggestions that the city must eventually be surrendered find no credence here. Gen. Gallieni has every confidence in the strength of his forts. Their guns, all of the latest type, are so mounted that it would be impossible for the Germans to mount their siege artillery close enough to smother their fire.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—Laon next, and then Rheims, after that Paris.

This was the program of attack looked for by Paris from the constantly advancing German right wing.

Although the war office was ominously silent early today, news that the Germans had hammered their way into Compeigne and La Fere and had forced the allies to evacuate Amiens, brought to Paris full realization that only Laon and Rheims and the British-French forces which steadily have been pushed back, stand between the mighty German army and Paris.

Germans Resting

Official announcement by the war office that there has been no contact with the enemy since yesterday (Thursday) was taken to mean that the heretofore almost constant attacks by the Germans had at last stopped, if only momentarily, to afford the weary invaders a brief respite for rest, and to conserve their energies for the furious assaults which they undoubtedly are hoping will carry them with a rush over the scant fifty miles to the Paris defenses.

That the Germans will not halt at Paris unless the allied armies give them battle in front of the city was considered certain here today. The city is very nervous.

That the Germans are really within striking distance of the outer ring of forts is indicated by the activity of Gen. Gallieni. He has been rushing his troops to the points of contact all through the night.

Battle in Few Days

There is no doubt that the vicinity of Paris will be a real battle ground within the next few days. The main German army is expected to attempt to force battle almost at the gates of the city. If they do not succeed the Germans will undoubtedly press on against the French-English column, while concentrating their attack on Paris at one particular point. It is now realized that Germany never contemplated the complete investment of Paris. Their operations if they reach the city will be a repetition of those at Namur. Their enormous batteries of siege artillery, the greatest guns of modern time, will be concentrated on one fortified position at a time.

French Losses Huge

The French losses in the three days' battle which culminated in the taking of Amiens were enormous. This is admitted to have been due to the inability of the French officers at times to control their men who insisted on charging the German positions. Thousands of Frenchmen

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Red Child Who Became a Great Chief.

"It was many years ago," said daddy.
 "What was so many years ago, daddy?" asked Evelyn.
 "It was many years ago," continued daddy, "that the red child learned the first steps of how to become a great chief later, for this story happened in America in the days before the white men came to the land. It was before Columbus sailed over here and discovered how foolish the people were who had told him that if he dared to go sailing too far away on the wide water that he would come to a high waterfall and tumble off into—well, into just nothing, for that is what they used to think.
 "In those days the country was just all woods and lakes and streams. Paths that were called trails used to run through the woods, and they had been worn deep by the feet of many of the Indians. The greatest fighters and wisest men of the Indians attracted the most admiring numbers of their tribes, and this little Indian boy when he was quite young determined that he would become very brave and very wise, too, and that when he became a man he would be made a chief.
 "He had a toy spear and a little bow and arrow to play with, and he used to work with them very hard, and soon he was able to throw a spear and a tomahawk farther and truer and shoot an arrow far straighter than the other boys, and they used to have wrestling matches and running races and many feats of strength with each other, and, sure enough, it was not long before this little Indian boy, whom we will call Young Man Not Afraid of Anything, could wrestle better and run farther and do other things far better than any of the other boys with whom he played.
 "When he was eighteen years old they chose him for a great test as one of the relay runners in carrying a message to the chieftain of another tribe hundreds of miles away. Each one of these picked men had to run a hundred miles in a day, for there were no horses in America until the white men came later and brought them, so the Indian had to make horses of his legs, and they were truly wonderful horses.
 "This Indian boy did his hundred miles faster than any of the others. A while afterward there was a war against another tribe, and this young man did so wonderfully against his enemies that the old men of the tribe said that never before was there so great a fighter. So they made him a chief, and he lived for many years and was a great chief in battle and in council, all because when he was a little boy he knew what he wanted and studied and worked to make it."

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

A TIMELY ELOPEMENT

BY LOUISE McSERVE.

Copyright by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Mrs. Stevenson reread the last paragraph of the letter which the postman had just brought to make sure she had understood it correctly. "By the way, Ellen, I have just heard that your Margie is much interested in Donald Rowland. I'm a bit surprised, if it's true, and do hope that she knows Don is engaged to a girl in this town who is planning to marry him at the end of his college course."

Mrs. Stevenson crushed the letter in her belt with a sinking heart. It did not seem believable that Donald Rowland, the gay, lovable, devoted boy, who had been so plainly interested in her Margie for the past year should have been engaged to a girl back in his home town. And yet here was the statement of her own sister, who had gone to that same town on a brief visit.

Her unpleasant reflections were interrupted by the opening of the front door, the sound of a merry "goodbye till tonight," and then Margie was in the room.

"Oh, mother, dear," she cried, "Don and I have just had the grandest ride. I wanted him to stay for supper, but he couldn't. He wants me to go to the circus, though, tonight. May I go?"

The pang which Mrs. Stevenson had felt when she first read the letter returned with double force.

"Margie, dear," she began, ignoring her daughter's question, "I asked you a question once before and I am going to repeat it now. Don't you think that it is time Donald asked you to marry him?"

The merry light left Margie's eyes. Her lips quivered. "I know—but what can I do?"

"Does he tell you that he loves you?"

Margie shook her head. "No he doesn't. He says nothing at all."

"Hasn't he ever?" the mother pursued.

"No, father, he hasn't. Once he came near it I think. He started to put his arm around me and then he drew away. It was the only time. We're just friends, that's all."

She clasped her hands. "We're so happy together. Let's not have anything spoil it."

If anything were needed to decide Mrs. Stevenson on the wisdom of immediate action it was these last words. She handed Margie the note.

"Read it, dearie. It's the only thing to do, and postponing the evil day won't help matters."

Margie obeyed. After she had read it she let it drop fluttering to the floor and buried her face in her hands.

"Oh, I don't believe it. I can't believe it," she moaned. And she said nothing more. She refused to talk of it and that same evening when it was time for Don to come she refused to go down. "You go and see him, mother, and if it is true tell him that I never want to speak to him again."

Mrs. Stevenson went down in answer to the bell a few moments later and the frank, glad smile with which Don greeted her made it impossible for her to believe the letter she still carried in her belt. He seemed even in better spirits than usual and shook her hand with frank vigor.

"Oh, Mrs. Stevenson, I am so glad to see you—and alone. I want to see you all by yourself."

"Yes?"

He waited until they were in the parlor. "I want to tell you something which has been on my mind for a long, long time. I love Margie and I want to marry her. I graduate in a month, you know, and father is willing to take me into his concern. We oughtn't to have to wait for more than six months, do you think—that is, if Margie loves me as much as I hope—and you are willing." He finished rather breathlessly.

"Sit down, Don," said Mrs. Stevenson quietly. "Let us talk a little first." Then after a moment. "Are you quite sure that there is nothing at all that stands in your way?"

"No, Mrs. Stevenson, there isn't a thing," he answered promptly, and meeting her scrutiny frankly.

"Are you telling me the truth?" the mother repeated, still quietly, but with a medley of conflicting emotions rushing through her mind.

"Yes, of course." Then he added more slowly, as her eyes did not leave his. "Nothing stands between us—now."

"Why do you say 'not now'?"

"Oh, you know then?" An illuminating look flooded his face. He had caught at last the meaning of her repeated inquiries.

She nodded. "I know."

"Oh, but you don't know—really." He laughed out almost joyously. Then when he saw the pained expression on her face he sobered quickly.

"I'll explain everything, Mrs. Stevenson. It's all simple and has come out so wonderfully well. You see I have never said anything of love or marriage to your daughter because I was not in position to do so. But I did not refrain from falling in love with her and trying to make her care for me because I knew that the barrier between us could not always last."

"I have been engaged, nominally, for two years to a girl back home. My mother and her father arranged it and were determined that we should marry one another. But she did not care for me any more than I cared for her, and told me repeatedly that she would never, under any circumstances, marry me. She was afraid of her father, though, and did not dare to rebel openly. It was a terrible situation all around, and no one was happy. I intended to go east when I finished school and cut away from all home ties. She was willing that I should, and the blame of the broken engagement would be on my shoulders."

"This evening, when I got back from the ride with Margie, I found this telegram awaiting me. You can read it and see how well everything has come out."

"Dear Don, I am freeing myself and you at the same time. Am eloping with a fan I love. Have just married him and we are leaving for the coast. Here's hoping you marry some one you love as much as I love my man."

"SUE."

Mrs. Stevenson did not answer for a long moment. Then she handed back the telegram.

"I have always been fond of you, Don, and I believe all that you have said. Perhaps you had better see Margie now. If Margie loves you I am willing that her happiness should be yours and mine, too."

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy so it was impossible to comb it or do, it was impossible to think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of failures, I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it, and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, ½ drachm; Lavona de Compose, 2 oz. If you like it perfumed add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. This, however, is not necessary. Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.

CHINA EDUCATES

In China, temples in many of the cities have been confiscated to accommodate the colleges or schools which are being founded more rapidly than buildings can be built for them. The ancient examination halls of the classic system are being torn down to build the new universities and parliament buildings. The number of modern government students in Peking rose in ten years from three hundred to seventeen thousand, and the pupils in the surrounding province increased from two thousand to two hundred thousand. Even women's education is being rapidly advanced in China. Sherwood Eddy, in the World's Work.

TOO MANY COOKS IS FINE SHOW

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Having passed its 191st representation at this afternoon's performance, "Too Many Cooks" bids fair to be one of the most popular pieces produced during the latter part of the late lamented season. So well has the piece taken here, it has been decided definitely, it was announced at the William A. Brady offices today, to send out at least five road shows, which will appear in the middle west and Canada. Because some of the best road shows are failures here and vice versa, the Brady management has decided to wait and see how "Too Many Cooks" is received in the middle west before considering plans to send it to the coast.

WAR DOPESTERS
AND HISTORY

People who regard Germany as foredoomed to defeat because of the great numerical strength of her allied foes may have their vision clar-ified by reading the following from Macaulay's essay on Frederick the Great:

No such union of continental powers has been seen for ages. A less formidable confederacy had compelled Louis XIV to bow down the haughty lion to the very earth.
Such odds had never been heard of in war. The people whom Frederick ruled were not five millions. The population of the countries leagued against him amounted to a hundred millions. The disproportion in wealth was at least equally great.

At the beginning of November the net seemed to have closed completely round him. The Russians were in the field and were spreading devastation
through his eastern provinces.
Silesia was overrun by the Austrians. A great French army was advancing from the west under command of Marshal Soubise. Berlin itself had been taken and plundered by the Croats. Such was the situation from which Frederick extricated himself with dazzling glory in the short space of thirty days.

Or take France of 1793, rent and shattered by the Revolution, with anarchy and rebellion at home, with hardly a government, with little money and less credit, menaced by a coalition that at her best would have far outmatched her in paper strength—and rising to trample all her opponents under foot.

In our own time it was easily settled on paper that little Japan could not possibly maintain a footing on land against Russia; and we have seen England, in order to subdue a handful of Dutch farmers in South Africa, compelled to put forth as great an effort as when she struggled with Napoleon at the height of his power.

For the above we have to thank the Saturday Evening Post, which accompanied its publication by two editorial paragraphs, the first of which is designed to show by analogy how swift this war may be (the dates of the month almost tally),
and the other to illustrate how futile the work of "experts" who are figuring Germany's fate out on paper by comparison of numbers:

June 7, 1866, Prussian troops entered Holstein. July 3, at the battle of Koniggratz—or Sadowa—Austria and her allies were crushingly defeated. The peace which soon followed made Prussia's supremacy in Germany beyond dispute.
July 19, 1870, war between France and Prussia was declared. The first week in August Prussia gained the victories of Weissenburg, Worth and Spicheren. August 18 she signally defeated the French at Gravelotte.
September 2 Napoleon surrendered his whole army at Sedan. September 19 the Prussians were at Paris.
The war against Austria and her allies nominally lasted seven weeks.
That against France was virtually over in forty-five days. For purposes of comparison it may be recalled that the present war was declared July 31.

While the war lasts mathematical warriors will balance corps against corps and ship against ship in the newspaper columns; but in a real war all that paper strategy counts for nothing. That poor little Prussia, in 1756, could not possibly make head against Austria, France, Russia, Sweden and Saxony was as demonstrable on paper as that two and two make four. But the Seven Years' war was decided by a factor
quite outside the range of mathematics—namely, by Frederick, with a val of corrosive sublimine in his pocket, and in his heart a black determination to fight while he had a regiment left, and then commit suicide. Revolutionary France had no show on paper, but in fact overran all Europe. In recent times our brush with Spain is the only war that has shown the least respect for the programs laid down for it in advance. If the Spanish army in Cuba had been capably led and really determined to fight, the ending would have been the same, but the story would have been different. If war could be determined on paper there would be no war, for a nation fights
only when it has some hopes of winning.

WHAT GERMAN-AMERICANS ARE KICKING ABOUT

An editorial paragraph in Collier's
Weekly illustrates the sort of American journalism about which citizens whose parents were "Made in Germany" are kicking. Please read it:

We shall obey President Wilson's neutrality order faithfully. All the same, we know the man who, stripped of monarchical prerogatives, in any American court, under American law, could be indicted and convicted for incitement to murder.

Meaning the kaiser, of course. Is it any wonder that when men of German derivation read stuff like that they jump three feet in the air
and kick their heels together?

It cuts, and it's so utterly useless.

MEAT BIG ITEM.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—An indication of how much meat is eaten in the United States is given by statistics announced by the department of agriculture. It shows that in February, 1914, there were 498,991 head of cattle, 99,865 calves, 1,112,500
sheep, 1,228 goats and 2,722,753
hogs slaughtered under federal meat inspection establishments. The report also shows that 4,336,555 pounds of beef were imported from Argentina to the United States in February, 1914.

VEAL BIG DEMAND.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Demand for veal has increased rapidly and not only surplus dairy veal calves,
but thousands of beef calves as well
are being slaughtered, until the price per head has reached $8 and $12
when the calves are only two to three months old, according to the department of agriculture.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

There's a Reason.

I love to board the trolley car
And ride, it matters not how far;
Upon a fine and breezy seat,
I can defy the sultry heat.
I like the happy pick-up crowd,
The warning bells that clang so loud,
And when along the rails we zip,
It makes a fine and dandy trip.
I don't believe that I would care
To do my riding in the air
Like Beachey does or Orville Wright;
I like to know where I will light.
I don't call autoing much fun;
I almost never ride in one.
And carriage riding palls on me;
It's tame so far as I can see.
Somehow or other I don't like
To go out riding on a bike.
And motor boating to my mind
Is riding of a tedious kind.
Of course, maybe some folks will think
That my idea is on the blink.
But I will tell the reason why
The street car ride I'm swearing by.
A simple hint will quite suffice—
It is a matter of the price.
The trolley way is, woe betide,
The only way that I CAN ride.

For Those Who Need It.
Cardinal Manning related this incident as having happened to himself:
One night I was returning to my residence in Westminster when I met a poor man carrying a basket and smoking a pipe. I thought over this:
He who smokes gets thirsty; he who is thirsty desires drink; he who drinks too much gets drunk; he who gets drunk endangers his soul. This man is in danger of mortal sin. Let us save him. I affectionately addressed him:
"Are you a Catholic?"
"I am, thanks be to God."
"Where are you from?"
"From Cork, your reverence."
"Are you a member of the Total Abstinence society?"
"No, your reverence."
"Now," said I, "that is very wrong. Look at me; I am a member."
"Faith, maybe your reverence has need of it."—Truth Seeker.

The Only One.

"So," said the good man, "you intend to be a doctor when you grow up?"
"Yep," Tommy replied.
"And why have you decided upon
the medical profession?"
"Well, a doctor seems to be the only man that keeps right on gettin'
paid whether his work is satisfactory or not."

The Correct Recipe.

"So you are to be married and have a home of your own? Why, you don't know the first thing about housekeeping."
"Oh, yes I do! The first thing is to get a man to keep house for."

STOMACH TROUBLES DUE TO ACIDITY

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind and stomach-ache are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind dis-tends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food.
Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural,
but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisulfated magnesia, probably the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation, and neutral-izes the acidity in a few moments.
Fermentation, wind and acidity are dangerous and unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper antacid, such as bisulfated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.—M. F. P.

When Hers Came Round.

The palm for absentmindedness is probably taken by a learned German.
One day the professor noticed his wife placing a large bouquet on his desk.
"What does that mean?" he asked.
"Why," she exclaimed, "don't you know that this is the anniversary of your marriage?"
"Ah, indeed, is it?" said the professor politely. "Kindly let me know when yours comes round and I will reciprocate the favor."

From His Point of View.

"Why aren't you over in Europe,
fighting for your country?" asked the American of the European who wanted a nickel to get a drink.
"I thought over there once," answered the foreigner.
"Ah! And did you stand your ground when a real battle came?"
"No, sir; I ran away."
"What! You ran at the first shot?"
"Yessir, mister. An' if I know eeet come sooner, I run before dat!"
"That's an awful confession of cowardice. Do you consider your life more than other people's lives?"
Is your life worth more than the life
of your brave captain, of your valorous colonel, your intrepid general?"
"Yessir, it be worth more."
"What do you fear, worth more?"
"Vorth more to me, ain't it?"

Severe Blood Troubles Vanish

With Magic Effect, Great Remedy Makes Disease Disappear.

At almost any drug store you may obtain S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, and you then have the veritable wizard that makes all blood troubles vanish. Your stomach takes kindly to S. S. S., it rushes into your blood, is a purifying wave, makes the liver, kidneys, bladder and skin work in harmony; stops accumulations that have caused rheumatism, catarrh, swollen glands,
sore throat and skin eruptions.
Just as food makes blood, so does S. S. S.
follow the process of digestion to stimulate natural secretions to protect us against the ravages of disease germs. We are well aware of the fact that these germs are apt to be latent within us to break forth in violent eruptions of the skin whenever the system is in a low state of resistance.
And it is to both prevent these eruptions
or to get rid of them that Nature gave us an ally in S. S. S. It is purely vegetable, contains no mercury, and yet it overcomes those serious troubles for which mercury has been employed for ages. In every community are people who know this to be true. They owe to S. S. S. their recovery. Get a bottle today. Refuse all substitutes. Read the folder around the bottle that tells of the wonderful work being done by the medical department in assisting users of S. S. S. For a special

"I am a firm believer in advertis-

Here Mr. Horowitz's sunburnt and of his rare and charming smiles.

"When a duck lays an egg," he said, "she waddles back to the duckpond in indifferent silence. But when she lays an egg, her frantic cack-les make it known."

"The hen advertises."

"And that, my friends, is why the world eats hens' eggs instead of ducks' eggs."

The 1914 Girl.

Reginald Vanderbilt, at a Newport luncheon, praised the 1914 type of girl.

"With her frocks and swimming suits," Mr. Vanderbilt said, "the 1914 girl, beautiful as a goddess and athletic as a sophomore, is the most attractive creature. No wonder she marries off so young and so well."

"I heard an anecdote about a 1914
girl the other day.

"At a dinner dance, after a maxixe, this girl's partner, a bespectacled
young man, said to her:

"Let us go and walk in the sunken garden."

"I don't want to go into the garden," the girl said shyly, "without a chaperon."

"Oh, we don't need a chaperon.
I assure you," said the bespectacled
young man.

"Then," said the girl, "I don't want to go into the garden."

She had been reading, but her book had slipped to her feet. With hands clasped about her knee and head tilted back, she was watching the lazy white clouds that stretched like wisps of scattered cotton across the blue field of the sky. At first the young man was startled by the impression that she had discovered his presence and was scrutinizing his position, but a second glance reas-ured him, and he stretched himself
where a block of granite and, below
it, a cedar tree, effectually protected him from discovery. Thus hidden,
he stared at the girl unblinkingly.

He was like a thirsty traveler,
drinking at a cool well, unexpectedly discovered in a deserted country.

For two years he had led the life of the cowboy, exiled from his kind,
going with the boys from lower Texas to Kansas along the Chisholm trail, overseeing great herds of cattle, caring for them day and night, scarcely ever under a roof, even that of a dugout. Through rain and storm, the ground had been his bed,
and many a blistering summer day
a pony captured wild from the plains and broken to stand like a dog, had been his only shade. During these two years of hard life, reckless companions and exacting duties, he had easily slipped into the grooves of speech and thought common to his fellows. Only his face, his unconscious movements and accents, distinguished him from the other boys of "Old Man Walker"—the boss of the "G-Bar Outfit."

On no other condition but that of apparent assimilation could he have retained his place with Walker's ranchmen; and in his efforts to remove as quickly as possible the reproach of tender-loft it was not his fault that he had retained the features of a different world, or that a certain air, not of the desert, was always breaking through the crust under which he would have kept his real self out of sight. He himself was the least conscious that this was so.

For two years he had seen no one like the girl of the cove, none—although he had seen women and girls of the settlements often enough—who even suggested her kind. Her dress, indeed, was plain enough, and obviously chosen in cheerful ignorance of forms and conventions, although the color, a delicate pink, was all he could have wished. After all, the clothes revealed nothing except absence from city shops and city standards.

That was wonderful hair, its brown
tresses gleaming though untouched
by the sun, as if it were enmeshed innumerable particles of light. It seemed to glow from its very fineness, its silkiness—the kind of hair
one is prompted to touch, to feel if it is really that way! The face was more wonderful, because it told many things that cannot be expressed in hair language. There was the seal of innocence on the lips, the proof of fearlessness in the eyes, the touch of thought on the brow, the sign of purpose about the resolute little chin. The slender brown hands spoke of life in the open air, and glow of the cheeks told of burning suns. Her form, her attitude, spoke not only of instinctive grace, but of a certain wildness in admirable harmony with the surrounding scene.
Somehow, the ruggedness of the mountains and the desolate solitudes
of the plains were reflected from her face.

The young man gazed as if his thirst would never be appeased. The flavor of nights about the campfire and other nights spent in driving sleet, also days when the first flowers come and the wide beds of the desert rivers are swollen with overbrimming floods; the cruel exposure of winter, the thrilling balminess of early spring—all spoke to him again from that motionless figure. He recalled companions of his boyhood and youth, but they were not akin
to this child of the desert mountains.
Still more alien were those of the saloon stations, the haunts at the outskirts of civilization. It seemed to him that in this young girl, who had the look and poise of a woman,
he had found what hitherto he had vainly sought in the wilderness—the beauty and charm of it, refined and separated from its sordidness and its uncleanliness—in a word, from all that was base and ugly. It was for this that he had left his home in the east. Here was typified that lovelliness of the unbroken wilderness without its profanity, its drunkenness, its obscenity, its terrible hardships.

At last he tore himself away, retraced his steps as cautiously as he had come, and flung himself upon the pony left waiting at a sheltered nook far from the cove. As he sped over the plains toward the distant herd, it came to him suddenly in a way not before experienced that it was May, that the air was balmy and fragrant, and that the land, softly lighted in the clear twilight, was singularly beautiful. He seemed breathing the roses back home—which recalled another face, but not for long.
The last time he had seen that eastern face, the dew had lain on the early morning roses—how could a face so different make him think of them? But imagination is sometimes a bold robber, and now it did not hesitate to steal those memories of sweet scents to encloud the picture of the mountain girl.

The G-Bar headquarters was on the western bank of what was then known as Red River, but was really the north fork of Red River. "Old Man Walker," who was scarcely past middle age, had built his corral on the margin of the plain which extended to that point in an unbroken level from a great distance, and which, having reached that point, dropped without warning, a sheer precipice, to an extensive lake. The lake was fed by springs issuing from the bluffs; not far beyond it and not much lower, was the bed of the river, wide, very red and almost dry.
Beyond the river rose the bold hills
of the Kiowa country, a white line chiseled across the face of each, as if Time had entertained some thought of their destruction, but finding each a huge block of living rock, had passed on to torture and shift and alter the bed of the river.

The young man reached the corral
after a ride of twelve or thirteen miles, most of the distance through a country of difficult land. He galloped up to the rude enclosure, surrounded by a cloud of dust through which his keen gray eyes discovered
Mizzoo on the eve of leaving camp.
Mizzoo was one of the men whose duty it was to ride the line all night
—the line that the young man had guarded all day—to keep Walker's cattle from drifting.

"Come on, Mizz," called the young man, as the other swung upon his broncho, "I'm going back with you."

The lean, leather-skinned, sandy moustached cattleman uttered words not met for print, but expressive of hearty pleasure. "Ain't you had enough of it, Bill?" he added. "I'd think you'd want to lay up for tomorrow's work."

STATE BREEDERS PRIZE WINNERS

Clydesdale Men Take Ribbons at Iowa State Fair; Shorthorn Heifer
Scores High

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 4.—Wisconsin Clydesdale breeders cleaned up many awards at the recent Iowa state fair at Des Moines. McLay Bros. of Janesville had one of the best strings in the entire exhibit. They took first in the aged mare class on "Florentia," first on aged mares with foals on "Princess Hand-some," first on filly foals, and first on mares over three years bred by the exhibitor. Of eleven mares shown, "Florentia" was easily the best, according to the judges.

The Clydesdales were the strongest shown in some years. The McLays won first on "King Norman," first on stallion foals, and fourth on another horse. In the Shorthorn cattle class, Frank Harding of Waukesha, who is president of the American Shorthorn Breeders' association, won his share of the premiums, one of the sensations of the show being his two year old heifer, Anoka Lancaster Duchess VII, who was also champion at the St. Joseph, Mo., state fair last week. She may also be the champion at Des Moines.

POLICE CURB RECKLESS DRIVING

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 4.—State police to curb reckless automobile driving both in cities and in the country will be organized within a year if plans of state officials are carried out. These officials will endeavor to have the next session of the legislature make provision for such police. Governor James M. Cox has promised to aid in the movement if he is in office when the next general assembly convenes. Present plans call for the appropriation of funds from the hundreds of thousands of dollars paid into the state treasury for automobile licenses each year, for the pay of these suggested traffic policemen. In the city the state police could be used to augment the traffic squads. Those detailed to the country would be furnished with motorcycles.

FRENCH AVIATORS TO SHIELD PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 4.—A fleet of French aeroplanes, manned by the most intrepid aviators, whose accomplishments in the air have thrilled in peace times, are patrolling the air above Paris. This fleet of "air destroyers" will protect the capital from a possible raid by fifty huge German Zeppelins which are reported to be prepared for attack simultaneously with investment of the Paris fortifications by land.

Airmen's Dinner Gong.

One of the strangest dinner gongs in the world hangs outside a mess tent at the army flying camp at Netheravon, on Salisbury Plain, England. It is an old cylinder of a Gnome aeroplane engine, strung between two posts. When sharply struck the cylinder gives out a clear, resounding noise, which calls the airmen to their dinner as effectively as an ornate dinner gong.

DROPS BOMB ON PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 4.—Another German aviator flew over Paris today and dropped bombs on the city. French aviators pursued, but the German made his escape. The entire underside of his aeroplane was armored and the rifle fire made no impression.

ADVISES AVOIDING FRANCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Conditions in France are now so unsettled that Ambassador Herrick has advised against sending any more Americans through that country on their way home, according to a dispatch from Assistant Secretary of War Breckinridge, who cabled today from Berne, Switzerland. About a thousand Americans are left in Switzerland, but most of these did not want to leave.

MAILS REFUGE

OF THE SHARKS

It has been demonstrated that most advertising is honest and dependable and that the relatively small amount of the other kind can speedily be done away with, according to Herbert S. Houston, in the August World's Work. Strangely enough, as magazines and newspapers have set up their high standards and denied their columns to the unreliable advertisers, the latter have found their only place of refuge behind the protecting postage stamp of Uncle Sam. Denied access to all reputable publications and to bill boards and street cars and practically every other form of advertising, the swindlers and fakers now carry on their business chiefly through the mails. For years the Sterling Debiture Corporation was unable to have its advertising published in any medium of standing, but all the time it carried on a far reaching propaganda by mail and sold millions of dollars worth of worthless stock.

GIVES HELP ON HOG CHOLERA

MADISON, Sept. 4.—Hog cholera germs may live in the soil for many months. Lurking on farms where the disease has been present, they may reappear at any time unless the proper precautions are taken.

This is shown by the experience of a Milwaukee county farmer who has just brought his case to the attention of the officials of the agricultural experiment station at Madison. Some time ago, after losing a number of valuable hogs from cholera, he changed the location of his swine barns and yards and later raised a fine bunch of healthy pigs. Naturally he thought that the cholera jinx had left him, but recently it reappeared in his herd. The fact that he has not pastured his herd upon the same ground which pastured cholera sick hogs has not prevented the reappearance of this dread disease. Much of the entire premises may have been infected at that time.

The veterinarians recommended that all hogs, the temperature of which was not already above normal, be immediately given the proper serum treatment—the one remedy by which a herd can be saved from total extinction when cholera appears. They also urge the farmer to carefully clean up the barns and pens, burning the carcasses of all dead hogs and all litter which might be infested with the disease. Then, to prevent the recurrence of the malady which might be caused by lurking germs or introduced in the feed or by the purchase of stock, they advise him to maintain a cholera immune herd, thus doing away with the likelihood of future losses.

SOCIETY

BRIDGE AND MUSICAL

Thursday afternoon Mrs. George Hauser entertained at a bridge party of six tables, followed by a number of musical numbers and recitations, in honor of Miss Tucker of Chicago. Miss Tucker has a sweet and flexible high soprano voice which the guests enjoyed. Miss Lois Hallik and Miss Florence Herman gave several selections on the violin and piano and Miss Beular Meyers, sister of the hostess, who is a finished musician, also gave several violin numbers. Miss Ella Horne rendered several recitations which were also greatly appreciated. The invited guests were Miss Tucker, Miss Marion Dorset, Mrs. E. E. Dow, Mrs. Carl Noelle, Mrs. M. E. Hebbard, Mrs. E. S. Hebbard, Mrs. C. C. Looney, Miss Helleman, Mrs. John Bayer, Mrs. C. F. Sutor, Miss Bertha Hickisch, Miss Ella Horne, Mrs. Mills Tourtellotte, Mrs. Louis Hirschheimer, Mrs. J. L. Callahan, Mrs. Van Auker, Miss Ida Miller, Miss Anna Pamperin, Mrs. Egan, Mrs. H. E. Wolfe, Mrs. E. S. Dittman, Mrs. J. W. McLean, Mrs. Fred A. Smith, Miss Alice Wheeler, Misses Lois and Elsie Hallik and Miss Florence Herman.

Assisting ladies were Mrs. Dow, Mrs. Noelle, Mrs. F. O. Reed, Misses Marion Dorset and Elsie Hallik. The bridge prizes were won by Mrs. E. S. Dittman, Miss Tucker and Mrs. Tourtellotte.

SING OLD SONGS

Mrs. Mary Austin entertained a few friends at her home Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Tucker who delighted the company with a number of musical numbers both vocal and instrumental. Miss Mary Drummond also gave a vocal selection and piano solo. The feature of the afternoon was a piano duet by Mrs. W. R. Sill and Mrs. M. E. Eaton, which was followed by a number of old time songs that they learned in their younger days. Mrs. Sill and Mrs. Eaton sang "Barbara Allen," "Oft in the Stilly Night," "Hill Bright Smile Haunts Me Still," and other songs of the long ago.

IN HONOR OF MRS. M'FARLAN

Mrs. Archibald McFarlan of San Antonio, Texas, who has been spending the summer at the home of her father, August Miller, was a guest at a number of functions given in honor before her departure for her home. Miss Mayme Barber gave a bridge party of five tables, the prizes being taken by Mrs. Albert Miller and Miss Florence Beckman. Miss Annie Kinnear entertained her at the Kinnear cottage on French Island. Mrs. McClintock, Mrs. Burnop and Miss Underleak of Chatfield, Minn., were also guests of Miss Kinnear.

COFFEE

Mrs. Herman Wolfe entertained at a coffee of a dozen or more ladies this afternoon.

Mrs. J. A. Rowles entertained Thursday at a small coffee.

Mrs. J. E. McConnell of Orchard Place entertained a few of the neighbors in honor of Mrs. W. L. Crosby who is soon to leave for Boston, Mass., where she will go to spend a couple of years.

SOCIAL BRIEFS

La Crosse chapter No. 22, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday evening at the Masonic temple.

There will be a 6 o'clock dinner served at the Country club Monday, Labor day.

Miss Mayme Barber is visiting with friends in Chatfield, Minn.

Mrs. Florence Whelan has gone to Rollins, Wyo., where she has taken a school.

BRITISH ADMIT

LOSS IS 10,000

LONDON, Sept. 4.—British losses to date, according to official figures of the war press bureau are placed at 10,399. The latest additional losses announced today were:

Eighteen officers and sixty-two other rank killed.

Seventy-eight officers and 312 other rank wounded.

Eighty-six officers and 4,672 other rank missing.

Previous lists published showed:

Eighty officers and 127 other rank killed.

Seventy-eight officers and 329 other rank wounded.

Ninety-five officers and 4,183 other rank missing.

It is pointed out today that many of the missing have been returned to their base as unfit and that therefore the list of losses later may be found to be too high.

RUSSIA TO SEND TROOPS TO SERBIA

ROME, Sept. 4.—From Austrian army headquarters came the report today that Russian troops soon may join with the Serbian forces in their operations in the south. The Russian general staff, the report says, for days has been transporting ammunition and guns by way of the Danube to Serbia, as a preliminary to the actual transport of troops.

Many distinctive new models arriving daily. Prices range from $15 gradually up to $60.

DANCING DUCHESS IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Having had a preliminary tryout of three days on a "dog town" stage, "The Dancing Duchess" will open Monday at the Casino theater. "The Duchess" plays at Long Branch, N. J., tonight for the third performance before showing Broadway what it has in the nature of fun, frolic and amusement for the tired business man. If it takes as well along the bright lights as it appears to have done in these three days in the small time it ought to go well where seats cost $2 per— and more if the speculators beat you to the box office.

"The Dancing Duchess" is a new Viennese operetta in two acts. It is immediately appropriate in this day of dance, dance, dance, for what there is of a story satirizes the prevailing craze of the human race from land's end to land's end for tango, maxixe and hesitation. The book is by C. V. Kerr and R. H. Burnside, the latter of whom also is the stage director. The music is by Milton Lusk.

NO SURE MAIL TO DREIBUND NATIONS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The federal postal authorities cannot guarantee that letters mailed for German and Austrian points will ever reach their destination. The superintendent of foreign mails here very frankly admits this. There are no steamers running direct to German or Austrian ports these days. Mails are sent to the nearest neutral country, Berlin and North German letters are sent to Holland. Other letters for the south are routed by way of Spain and Italy. Austrian letters go via Italy.

This is a serious matter to many Germans and Austrians in this country. There are families back in the fatherland who depend on the remittances sent from this side.

BUSINESS A SCIENCE.

The science of selling offers a great field of study for the department of commerce and for the many business schools which are springing up in our colleges. Commerce is not mere money getting. It is a science, as banking and law and medicine are sciences. It should be studied as such, for with such study comes not only greater efficiency, but a higher standard of ethics as well. There is no more pressing public service to be done than the discovery of the best ways of reducing the cost of distribution and of elevating business to the standards of a profession.—The World's Work.

GERMANS DENY HEAVY WAR TAX

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Sept. 4.—The German government today stated that reports that $40,000,000 had been demanded of Brussels, $10,000,000 from Liege province, and $2,000,000 from Liege city were not true.

"The various cities will have to pay a war tax, naturally," said the statement, "but the amounts reported from sources close to the enemy are untrue. The exact figures are still to be fixed."

BATHS TO CLOSE IF ATTENDANCE DON'T SHOW AN INCREASE

Whether the city bath house will remain open after Sunday will be determined by your presence or non-presence across the river Saturday and Sunday.

The water was occupied yesterday by just two, and these were women. A thermometer showed the water to be fifty degrees warmer than when fishing through the ice in the sport. Two men accompanied them, but one too stuck in the water drove them back.

Manager Kaufuss will close the baths Sunday night for the season if paying crowds do not appear on that day and Saturday.

That the season has been a huge success was shown when a counting of the bath house books gave the sum of over $900 taken in during the season. Over 1,000 persons are said to have taken advantage of the baths.

were mowed down in these mistaken exhibitions of courage.

After Amiens the next stand was at Piegny, eight miles further south. Enroute the French had destroyed great sections of the highway, the tunnels and all bridged, but this hardly perceptibly checked the Germans. So far as is known here, the townspeople of Amiens were shown no indignities, and only two were killed, one a chauffeur who failed to halt when ordered, and the other a butcher who became involved in an argument with a Prussian officer over supplies.

New Commodity Law in Effect Yesterday and Mrs. Housewife Will Know What She Gets

Thursday the new commodity law went into effect and hereafter every package containing food stuffs must be so labeled as to show the exact contents.

The law does not apply to goods sold by grocers in bulk—merely to bottles and packages kept in stock.

While the law enforced here is a Wisconsin creation, similar laws, almost identical with the Wisconsin measure, have gone into effect in all other states.

The lay on the subject is a follows:

SECTION 94-17. No person, firm or corporation shall knowingly make or publish, or cause to be made or published, any false statement in relation to any candidate, which statement is intended or tends to affect any voting at any primary or election. (1911 c 650)

Mr. Teasdale is chairman of the legislative vice committee and has been active in gathering for the legislature data on the subject.

BELL TO CONNECT WITH INDEPENDENTS

Wisconsin Telephone Company Manager Announces that Physical Connection Will Be Made at Once

Work of connecting the toll lines of the Wisconsin Telephone company with the lines of the La Crosse Telephone company will be started at once, according to L. H. Dodge, the local Bell manager, this morning, and by September 9 subscribers to the La Crosse Telephone company will be able to talk to all points on the lines of the Bell company.

H. O. Seymour, general manager of the Wisconsin Telephone company, states that the questions involved in such a connection are many and complex, but that these matters have been pretty thoroughly considered by all parties interested, and as a result thereof the order of the commission has so far taken care of such matters as to make the experiment very worthy of a trial, and the Wisconsin Telephone company therefore is glad to open its toll lines to the use of the subscribers of the La Crosse Telephone company under the plan outlined by the commission.

SCARE CALLS MILITIA

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 4.—The first "war scare" of the present occupation of Butte by state militia came today when a riot call was turned in by sentries at the Mountain View mine. Miners on the way to work were mistaken for men trying to dynamite the mine buildings and 600 soldiers encamped at the court house were called out.

Well, for once in history, a condition arose where an American tourists money was not good in Europe.—Atlanta Journal.

BOHEMIAN WOMEN CONVENTION OVER

Street Car Ride Thursday a Feature of Entertainment Program for Delegates

Nearly through with their work here yesterday afternoon, seventy-five women delegates to the triennial national convention of the Bohemian Catholic women of America were tendered a street car ride through the city by local branch, St. Agnes No. 20.

Starting at Tenth and Market streets, the women rode in three car loads to the north side, back again and out Main street to the Catholic cemetery.

Another business session was held at St. Wenceslaus school hall this morning, winding up the convention.

Every large city in the United States is being represented at the convention this week. Services have been held at 8 o'clock each morning at St. Mary's Catholic church, followed by business sessions. St. Mary's has been used as St. Wenceslaus church is being rebuilt.

The delegates will leave the city tomorrow morning for their homes.

RUSSIANS ARE ON DEFENSIVE IN RUSSIAN POLAND

of the Russian general staff to drive the army wherever possible into the fortifications, and leave enough troops behind to bottle them up, thus making an onward march to Vienna easy.

The war office, in reviewing the last twelve days' operations, reported that yesterday in a battle to the northwest of Lemberg the Austrians, who had tried to assume the offensive, were badly routed, losing another army standard, several hundred prisoners and many guns.

The report says:

"Our victories over the Austrians have been continuous and it now appears that they were much greater than earlier reports indicated. The Austrians struck at Zamosc, in Russian Poland, and their initial attack was successful as the Russian forces there were greatly outnumbered. Reinforcements hurried to the front by Grand Duke Nicholas soon checked this and the Austrians in turn were routed with very heavy losses."

Discussing the Gadician campaign, the report says: "Instead of falling back on Lemberg, the Austrians abandoned the city, first destroying such supplies as they could easily burn. After Lemberg had been occupied Zolkiew, sixteen miles to the north was taken. The Austrian rear guard was badly cut to pieces by the Russian cavalry. The Austrians did not stop until they reached the defenses of the River San. The Austrians have mounted their artillery all along the river bank and the Russian artillery is already firing on it."

It is also admitted at the war office that Russian troops in heavy force are now moving toward Hungary and are expected to strike at the Borgo pass in the Carpathian mountains, which is reported to be strongly fortified and guarded. The Russians have occupied Czernowitz on the Pruth river and are in force in Bukowina.

upon the treasury without delay or preavention and in order to keep the treasury strong, unquestionably strong, and strong throughout the present anxieties, I respectfully urge that an additional revenue of $100,000,000 be raised through internal taxes devised in your wisdom to meet the emergency. The only suggestion I take the liberty in making is that such sources of revenue be chosen as will begin to yield at once and yield with a certain and constant flow."

Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, today called a conference of democratic members to consider the emergency revenue legislation recommended in the president's message.

Underwood has prepared a tentative draft of a bill, the details are being closely guarded to forestall protests from the interests which will be affected. If the committee approves Underwood's ideas, the bill will probably be introduced tomorrow and promptly reported.

Chairman Underwood of the committee admitted this afternoon that not only was a tax on railroad passenger tickets being considered, but also a tax on freight receipts.

"THE SPENDTHRIFT"

C. S. Primrose is presenting a splendid theatrical attraction this season in "The Spendthrift" by Porter Emerson Browne. "A Fool There Was" is another of the successful plays in the hands of this popular author.

The story of "The Spendthrift" is one of keen interest, presenting a story in a new and nowise conventional way.

The part of Frances Ward, the spendthrift, is the central figure of the play whose methods of assisting her husband out of dire financial straits for which she has been unwittingly responsible, has placed her under the unjust suspicion of her husband which complication forms a basis for separation between husband and wife, but which later terminates in a happy reunion of the pair.

The play will be at the La Crosse theater September 6, matinee and night.

"THAT PRINTER OF UDELL'S"

One of the most interesting and amusing characters in Harold Bell Wright's famous novel, "That Printer of Udell's," that has this season been put into dramatic form by Mr. W. Wright and Elsie W. Reynolds and presented under the management of Messrs. Gaskill and MacVitty, is "Old Uncle Bobbie," an irascible but kind hearted old gentleman. In making a play of "That Printer of Udell's" the story has lost none of its interest or fine character drawing for which Harold Bell Wright is famous.

"That Printer of Udell's" will be seen at the La Crosse theater on Monday, September 7, matinee and night.

OPERA STARS TO BE HEARD HERE

A member of the committee said the prospects for an unusual course this year were excellent and that if the committee closes the contracts now being considered, the school will offer one of the best courses it has ever submitted to our people. Although two grand opera stars will appear on the course, the committee does not plan any increase in the price of the season tickets.

MISS BOLDUAN IS TEACHER'S BRIDE

Ceremony Celebrated Last Evening at the German Lutheran Church

Miss Mayme Emma Bolduan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bolduan, 316 Rose street, and Carl F. Pape, teacher of the German Lutheran parish school on Avon street, were married last evening at the German Lutheran church. The Rev. Julius Bergholz performed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a gown of white crepe meteor and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The couple was attended by Miss Esther Bolduan, sister of the bride, who was gown in pink crepe de chine and carried yellow roses, and Frank Bolduan of Caledonia, Minn., an uncle of the bride. The bridesmaids, the Misses Caroline Limpert and Clara Pape, were attired in yellow meteor crepe and carried pink roses. Theodore Schroeder of Winona and John Gawrisch acted as groomsmen.

The wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. The dining room was decorated in yellow and white, yellow flowers centering the table. The Misses Eunice Gibson, Charlotte Bartheld, Anne Limpert and Pearl Jones assisted with the serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Pape will reside at 814 St. Paul street.

The Gas Light Company of Atlanta, Ga., now uses motorcycles in its collection department.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

ENGLAND—Premier Asquith at Guild hall meeting denounced German atrocities, saying they eclipsed everything since the thirty year war. It is admitted that additional troops are badly needed.

FRANCE—The German line is now very close to Paris and is reported as gradually closing in on the city, which is ready for a siege. All information regarding the position of the army is refused.

BELGIUM—Reports that 500,000 Russian troops are being transported via Scotland to Ostend, to attack the German lines of communication are widely circulated, but official confirmation is withheld.

RUSSIA—The Russians are now attacking the Austrian fortifications along the San river, and official announcements state that the entire Austrian army is being slowly decimated.

ITALY—The government again announces that it is determined to continue neutral and reports of an ultimatum being sent to Austria are emphatically denied.

JAPAN—It is officially confirmed that a Japanese destroyer has been completely wrecked at Kaio Chau.

GERMANY—Denied that any fixed war tax has yet been levied on Belgian cities or provinces.

AUSTRIA—While insisting that the invasion of Russian Poland continues, it is admitted that the situation near Lemberg is unsatisfactory.

"Whys" of European War Moves Explained By Military Expert

BY J. W. T. MASON.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—11 a. m.—Two days ago German troops were within fifteen miles of the northernmost forts of the Paris outer defenses. Senlis and Chantilly are but a short distance from the Montignon, Doment and Ecouen forts, which are the most important outposts destined to see the invaders at Paris.

Doubtless German skirmishers are now in the suburbs of Paris, examining the territory about the little northeastern town of Gonese. This village, just off the main highway from Senlis, is at the northern end of a line running southeast six and a half miles to the town of Vanjours, which marks a weak spot in the Paris defensive ring. The chief reliance for the protection of this area has been placed by the French on several small streams, which are only temporarily fortified. These outer works probably will be the scene of much hand-to-hand fighting if the German assault on Paris be delivered between Gonese and Vanjours. Once they fall, however, favorably fortified positions between the entrenched camps remain at St. Denis, and Vincennes.

The reported capture of La Fere, if true, must engender an uneasy feeling among Frenchmen concerning the ability of Paris itself to hold out indefinitely. The La Fere fortifications are a miniature of the Paris defenses, and their fall after so brief an attack is highly encouraging to the Germans.

With La Fere eliminated as a pivot for the unfortunate Anglo-French left wing, that sorely harassed army must now operate as if it were based on Paris. It has been forced to become the advance guard of the Paris defenders. This accomplishment within a week is a great tribute to the massed formation tactics of the German generals.

THEATERS DEPEND ON CITY'S LIFE

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—It was bad enough when a certain vaudeville manufacturer and purveyor set the style in New York of depending for his headlines and star acts on principals in the Greater City's real life dramas and tragedies. This particular vender of the personalities of those who are mixed up in murder trials, divorce sensations and shooting affrays has confined himself to human beings. It took an enterprising movie manager to seek out an animal that had played the leading role in a real life tragedy and book it as principal in one of his productions. "Teddy," the lion which killed Emerson Dietrick in Chicago June 23 is the "character" in question. Solely on the publicity and notoriety the lion achieved by virtue of mutilating his former trainer, a movie manager engaged in producing a piece depicting the persecutions of the Christians at the time of Nero, arranged with "Teddy's" owner to have the man eating beast appear immediately all the dainty versatility of a vat or a hoghead, or to stick to her last year's modes and be dubbed passe, unless some gallant designer leaps into the breach and turns out a life and figure saving model for the portly.

KEEP WHAT YOU GAIN

Most people who have but a small reserve of strength feel better in summer than in winter. The vitality gained during the out-of-door season carries them through the trying weather of winter and early spring until there comes a time when the stored-up reserve strength is not sufficient.

How, then, shall we keep and add to the reserve of strength that means so much? By taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the blood and nerve tonic, to strengthen and sustain the system so that it can keep all the strength that it has gained and gain more. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and enable it to carry nourishment to every part of the body. Many disorders that have proved stubborn for years have been reached by this tonic treatment. Try these pills for debility, nervousness, headache, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, rheumatism, anemia or any other condition caused or aggravated by thin blood and weak nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no harmful ingredients of any kind. Two pamphlets describing the action of this remedy on the blood and nerves will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

FASHIONS ARE AGAIN THE TALK

Mere Man Only Shakes the Moth Balls Out of His Old Coat but Lovely Woman Is Busy

BY MARGARET MASON.

My lady of fashion is back in town In a velvet hat and a chemise gown, And so becoming all pause to scan; She's also wearing a coat of tan.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—At this time of the year, when mere man is shaking the mothballs out of his dresscoat, lovely woman, not to be outdone, orders home a coatdress from the little French dressmakers. These newest of the two creations are successors of the long Russian tunic frocks that were literally killed by kindness. When the long tunic was first launched on the sea of style it was received with such a wave of popularity that commonness soon swamped it and naturally it is no longer tolerated by the fashionably elect. Hence the evolution of the frock coat which is simply a garment whose waist continues in flaring lines to the calf in simulation of a veritable long coat over a skirt.

With the exception of the long unbroken line from shoulder to finish, the effect is practically the same as that of the long Russian tunic. These coatdresses are particularly smart for early fall wear of blue serge or in satin, both materials—lavishly braided in wide and narrow widths of black silk soutache braid used in combination. Women's clothes are certainly due for a large share of up-braiding this autumn, but so long as they are to be down-braided and braided all around as well, this will no doubt take the curse off.

Since bullets at the front are all the rage in France it seems only apropos that bullet buttons should be all the rage at the front of the feminine frocks on this side of the water. These buttons are equally chic in metal or satin and cloth covered.

The flaring collars of white organdie and batiste so omnipresent on all and every sort of frock are now replete with pleats and even a new square flat collar of sheer lace and organdie that falls down the back like a sailor collar comes pleated in divers tiny folds.

With practically all the new models for fall and winter showing the straight lines of the semi-fitted basque, the coat frock and the chemise gown, it promises to be a hard winter indeed for any but the sveltest of the sveltest. A fat or even a plump woman has but the choice of two evils—either to don one of these loose lined styles which gives her immediately all the dainty versatility of a vat or a hoghead, or to stick to her last year's modes and be dubbed passe, unless some gallant designer leaps into the breach and turns out a life and figure saving model for the portly.

A freak fashion that savors strongly of the decorative instinct of a Hot-tentot chief is the use of a fringe of shiny long black monkey fur around the bottom of a deep girdle on an evening frock and a like fringe outlining the edge of a short coat to a white serge or gabardine suit.

Fortunately this outpouring of monkey fur is not apt to be aped by anyone possessing a shred of either artistic or ordinary good taste.

The combination of the sleek black fur with the white chemise gown, shows the penchant for black and white to be absolutely undiminished and vying with the black satin basque and coat frock coats, cuffed and collared in organdie, and the chemise, basque and coat dresses of all white taffeta, are now offered similar silk models made up in tiny black and white check silk.

Though this intermittent craze for checks is temporarily checked from time to time, it never fails to break out anew at least once a season. Besides the black and white checked silk frocks, heavy capes of shepherd's plaid are also frequently glimpsed worn half slipping off of smart shoulders.

There is just one word of grace to say about the passing of the Russian tunic; a respite may be granted its too abrupt passing provided it is willing to get beneath the yoke. In other words, if you allow your tunic to drop from a fitted yoke about the hips instead of its former falling full or pleated from the waist line, you may still wear it with an up to date conscience.

DEATHS FROM BUBONIC PLAGUE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Four deaths from bubonic plague in New Orleans last month turned the United States public health service into a squad of rat killers. Such is the quick methods of the United States health officers in striking at the source of a pestilence which in May, June and July, 1911, caused the death of 86,000 persons in India. To show how efficient the public health army is, let me cite these facts:

One morning during the routine of his office work Surgeon General Blue, director of the public health service, received a night letter from the mayor of New Orleans advising him that one man had died and another was afflicted with a disease that resembled bubonic plague. Dr. Blue was asked to come and investigate. By noon Blue was in conference with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, in whose department the health service is.

McAdoo ordered Dr. Blue and Assistant Surgeon General Creel to New Orleans. Within twenty-four hours they were en route. Within three days the diagnosis of the New Orleans physicians was confirmed, an outgoing quarantine was established and expert rat killers ordered from San Francisco. Fifty thousand rats were killed within the first two weeks.

In the meantime wild rumors had reached Washington of sixteen deaths the first day in New Orleans and the ministers and ambassadors of the South American countries wired their governments immediately recommending a cessation of commercial intercourse. The health service through Secretary McAdoo protested, through Secretary of State Bryan to these countries. They were invited to send physicians to New Orleans to see that any such prohibition against shipping was foolish and unnecessary. Most of these countries then withdrew the barriers, pending a more thorough investigation.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy", you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

hundred Chinese students who are studying today in America are going back as the future governors, officers, engineers and leaders of every department of that great republic. Where will these men procure their machinery and their supplies? In answer, let me record that I traveled over a railroad in the east, where I was drawn by Philadelphia locomotives, in cars made in Wilmington, Del. over Pittsburgh rails, nailed with New York spikes to Oregon ties. In the dining car I ate Chicago beef and Pittsburg pickles; I saw many houses of the better class that were lighted by American oil, or equipped with American sewing machines. The broad fields of Manchuria are being reaped by American harvesters, and the opportunities for big business in the east are enormous.—Sherwood Eddy in the August World's Work.

ENGLAND TO INDIA BY RAIL

In Asia there is a railroad project that for a generation has fascinated men. It is the project of a link to tie the railroads of Europe to the railroads of India, so that the Englishman may reach his prized possessions of the orient without taking so much time about it. Of course, there are other reasons, but that seems to be the main one. Because of political complications, mainly the conviction that Russia would some day certainly grab any railroad that ran toward India and use it for her own purpose, that railroad dream languished. Now it comes true. About 2,000 miles of railroad are to be built, to cost about $200,000,000. No one estimates that it will ever earn its keep. That is one of the mysteries of the way they do things in Asia. It is the public's money, anyway, so who cares!—C. M. Keys in the August World's Work.

58,000 Americans Died Last Year From Bright's Disease and Other Kidney Ailments

Heed the Warning in Time:—Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy Will Make Your Kidneys Healthy and Strong

Sufferers from kidney diseases are prone to imagine they have dyspepsia, heart disease, nervous prostration and a hundred and one other ills. Very often the kidneys are so weak and diseased that they are utterly unable to carry the waste matter out of the body. The accumulation of this matter in the system, slowly but surely paves the way for Bright's Disease. To afford relief you should begin at once the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver remedy. Many physicians consider it to be a very excellent preparation in the treatment of kidney diseases. It reduces inflammation, strengthens the kidneys and liver, and enables these organs to do their work properly and fully. 37 years of success should be sufficient evidence of its merit. Stop experimenting with other preparations and take the tried and reliable Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy. Sold by all druggists in 50c and $1.00 sizes. Send for sample of any remedy and interesting booklet, free. Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 422, Rochester, N. Y.

RUSSIAN TROOPS SENT INTO FRANCE?

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—C. L. Willey, Chicago lumber merchant, who arrived on the liner Mauretania today, insisted that he had seen Russian troops pass through London streets enroute to the continent. Willey estimated the number at from 65,000 to 75,000. He said the report was that the Russians were enroute to the continent to reinforce the hard pressed allies.

Town of Moulain, Burned to the Ground by German In vaders

This photograph was taken a few hours after the German troops had occupied the town of Moulain in Belgium. They decided to wipe the place from the face of the earth. But before doing so they gave notice to the inhabitants to leave and thousands of men, women and children hurriedly packed their household goods in carts and went out seeking shelter. In a few moments the town was in flames and little was left of it.

RUSSIAN MUSIC HEADS THE BILL

Balalaika Orchestra and a Dancer Are Leaders at the Majestic

Headed by the Grasaeff Royal Balalaika orchestra, the Majestic for the last half of the week presents one of the best bills ever seen at the local playhouse.

The Balalaika orchestra, consisting of six pieces and a dancer, playing national airs of Russia, besides popular and classic selections, scores one of the hits of the season. The six instruments, string entirely, are handled by artists and the effect is most pleasing. A number of vocal solos are rendered to the accompaniment of the native instruments. The dancing of three members of the troupe is a feature of the act.

In one of the most original and amusing skits of the year, Stansfield, Hall and Lorraine present the comedy satire, "A Quiet Woman." The sketch is a satirical production on woman's rights. The many amusing situations of the playlet keep the audience in laughter.

Margaret Braun and sister work in a pleasing vocal and instrumental act, rendering a selection of popular and time-honored songs. Miss Braun possesses a wonderful range of voice and exercises it to good advantage.

In a romance embracing the characters seen among the poorer element of metropolitan life, Dickens and Floyd present the skit, "Did Tim Make Good." The sketch is interspersed with clean comedy, songs and dances.

The Banvard Sisters work in an entertaining aerial act, doing a number of difficult acts on the trapeze. The team work of the pair is excellent.

NORMAL TO OPEN HERE SEPT. 15

The La Crosse, with the seven other state normal schools, will open on Tuesday, Sept. 15. There are numerous changes in many of the faculties. New teachers here include H. N. Sherwood, history; Janet Renwick, domestic science; Winifred D. Williams, critic.

Shakespeare.

Shakespeare's purpose was to write dramatic pieces for playhouses of his day, to which he belonged, and by which he was paid in good coin of the realm. Being a very great man, and therefore able to "hold the mirror up to nature" with a force and fidelity never before possessed by a playwright, he made at one and the same time a good-sized fortune and an everlasting fame.

REMOVING CURSE FROM MOUNTAINS

Two years ago a cry for help came from Kentucky. Miles from the railroads, up in the mountain counties, the people were suffering from trachoma. How long it had been rife there, where it came from, and how severe or how widespread it was, no one knew. Only the local health authorities had found that they were unable to cope with it successfully. Then they sent their cry for help to the United States Public Health Service.

Trachoma is a painful and disfiguring affection which attacks the inside of the eyelid first, resulting in inflammation which in turn as it heals results in scar tissue. It is this scar tissue which, constantly irritating the eyeball, causes the formation of scars across the cornea, producing blindness.

The first work was put into the hands of Dr. John McMullen, Passed Assistant Surgeon of the United States Public Health Service. In the summer of 1912 he made an investigation in the wilderness of the Kentucky side of the Appalachian Mountains, where they form the great divide between Kentucky on the west and Virginia, West Virginia, and Tennessee on the east and south. He found that 60 or 75 per cent of families were infected in some neighborhoods.

THOUSANDS STARVE IN DUTCH CAMPS

Belgian Refugees Overtax All Resources of Holland to Care for Them

THE HAGUE, Sept. 4.—Thousands of women and children are actually starving in Holland today. They are residents of Belgium. Their homes have been destroyed. Their husbands and fathers are either dead or fighting against the Germans. The government cannot supply the kind of food needed and the mortality, especially among the children, is very great.

Special refugee camps have been arranged and the families are being cared for there as well as possible. The Dutch Red Cross is overtaxed but is striving desperately to care for all. The impossibility of this task, however, is best indicated by the fact that 320 families arrived at Maastricht yesterday. This is about the average number that are crossing the border at all of the frontier cities.

The queen is doing her best to aid the sufferers. She has made heavy contributions from her own private fortune for this purpose.

M'GREGOR MAN GOES TO REWARD

Born in Alsace Lorraine Peter Ohmer Dies; Survived by Nine Children; Funeral Held

McGREGOR, Iowa, Sept. 4.—Peter Ohmer, father of William and Frank Ohmer of McGregor, died at his home here Saturday morning of heart failure. The funeral was held at St. Mary's church Monday morning. Mr. Ohmer was born in Alsace-Lorraine in 1845.

He came to this country with his parents when a boy. Most of his life has been spent at Cassville, Wis. He served in the western army during the last year of the Civil war. On November 6, 1867, he married Miss Lena Harget in Urbana, Ill.

He is survived by his widow and nine children: Miss Mary Ohmer, Toledo, O.; Peter Ohmer, La Crosse; Mrs. Emma Schrein, Toledo, O.; Mrs. Lucy Westerman, Toledo; Mrs. Grettie Hennepin, East St. Louis; Mrs. Lena Roach, St. James, Mo.; Mrs. Kate Cook, Wagner, S. D.; and Frank and William of McGregor. With the exception of Mrs. Cook all were present at the funeral.

C. E. Blaker, manager of the Blaker and Brown garage, was given a birthday party Monday. There were present 75 relatives, all of whom are neighbors at Coleburg, Iowa. The 75 arrived by automobile Monday morning. The party brought a picnic lunch with them and spent the day at the Blaker home, driving back to Coleburg in the evening. The Blaker and Brown families have lived near Coleburg on adjoining farms for more than a half century. There are now more than a hundred representatives of the families living in the vicinity of Coleburg.

Thomas and Michael Rider, two brothers over 70 years of age, who have lived in the Cherry Mound district here ever since they were boys, recently died.

A letter from Father Dowling states that he expects to sail from Queenstown September 18 and to arrive in McGregor about the 25th. He has been in Ireland since the beginning of the war and has been spared the annoyances that travelers on the continent have had. Father Conroy, who has been filling Rev. Dowling's place at St. Mary's church, returned to Dubuque Wednesday to resume his duties as a member of the faculty of Dubuque college. The pulpit at St. Mary's will be supplied from Dubuque until Father Dowling returns.

Mrs. M. J. Brennan was hostess Thursday afternoon at one of the prettiest parties which has been given in McGregor in some time. About forty guests were present. Mrs. Brennan was assisted by her daughter, Regina, who is instructor in domestic science in the high school at San Bernardino, Cal.

Mrs. Ed Jacobs has been spending the week in La Crosse, called there by the illness of her brother, Esten Hillmoe. Mr. Hillmoe died at the La Crosse hospital Tuesday of blood poisoning.

The Misses Florence and Esther Chapin departed Monday for Cedar Rapids, where Miss Florence Tuesday resumed her work as instructor in elocution in the high school. Her sister will spend a week with her before going to Alton, Ill., to take up her work as professor of languages and dean of women at Shurtleff college.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bickel returned from Mason City Friday, where they had been guests of their son, Milton, and wife. While in the city Mr. Bickel played in the state chess tournament.

Most of the cottages on McGregor Heights will be vacated this week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jayne will return to Decorah Thursday.

The J. Y. Kennedy family will leave for their home in Cedar Rapids Saturday.

The A. Cutler and O. M. Buck families have moved down to their homes in town and others will follow within a few days.

Miss Gertrude Webb, who has been spending the summer at the University of Chicago, arrived home on Saturday. She will leave the last of this week for Joliet, Ill., where she holds the position of teacher of domestic science in the county high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Blackburn, who have recently sold their home in Postville, are here visiting relatives and friends. They expect to make their home in the future at Spokane.

Mrs. Jennie C. Koop, after an extended visit in the city, left Saturday for Mason City, where she will visit Mrs. J. A. Farrell before returning to her home in Schafer, N.D.

Mrs. Q. A. Sloane and Mrs. Dan Davis entertained a company of friends at tea Friday afternoon.

Rev. Chas. Marshall of Clear Lake and Mrs. Shuttleworth of Cresco were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell the first of the week. They were formerly residents of McGregor.

The Misses Iola and Georgia Quigley leave this week for Des Moines. Miss Iola will teach English in the West Des Moines high school. Her sister will teach literature and physical training in one of the grammar schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hughes and their son, Earl Hughes, and wife of Fairmont, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. William Cleveland of Cedar Rapids have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Rice this week.

U. S. TAKES EMBASSIES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The United States will take over the embassies in Paris, if the French government offices are moved to Bordeaux, Ambassador Spring-Rice declared today. He said his government had requested him to ask the United States to take over the British embassy.

FALL FESTIVALS TO BE A BIG AFFAIR

Gunners Are Out for Opening of Duck Season with Artillery and Ammunition Ready

LANSING, Iowa, Sept. 4.—Featured by a midnight parade, a new wrinkle, Lansing will be one of the gayest spots of the northern part of the state during the fall festival. It is said to be one of the biggest efforts of the small towns of the state. The carnival side of the affair will be copied after the New Orleans mardi gras.

Prizes will be given for the best canned fruit, onions, domestic flowers, oats, clover, squash, cabbage, rutabagas, carrots, beets, potatoes, tomatoes, pumpkins, corn and other farm products.

Disciples of gunning are out in force after the numerous ducks, the law for shooting same opening the first of the month.

Catholic Lady Foresters entertained Sept. 1 with a delicious spread, impromptu program and social converse occupying the hours. About 40 enjoyed the hospitality afforded.

Ritchie's ice cream parlor and confectionery was opened to the public Tuesday evening. Throughout the afternoon and night the place was thronged with persons wishing to view the interior and listening to the program of music by the Unterberger orchestra.

J. J. Dunlevy took a short respite from postoffice duties and journeyed to Perry and Des Moines during the past week. He reports the state fair offering many fine attractions.

Lansing, as usual, will be well represented at the La Crosse business colleges. Mark Julson, Joe Strube and Clifford Gruber being among the early entries from here at the W. B. U., while Leslie Spitzer will be enrolled at the Keefe school.

Mrs. Mary Curran Kennedy left the early part of the week for her home at Harvey, N. D.

Contractor Ole Severson, assisted by James Schessler and several other efficient workmen, are placing cement floors, stalls, feed boxes and other fixtures in the City livery stable, owned by James Manning. The work will take several weeks to complete, but when done the building will be one of the most sanitariously equipped stables in the state.

Leo Hanks of Postville was an over Sunday guest of Rev. Frank Pease and wife. Mr. Hanks is district vice president of Christian Endeavor work, and addresses the Endeavorers at the Sunday evening sessions. The young man is a violinist of merit.

Miss Esther Glynn is again at home after a fortnight's stay with South Dakota relatives.

Miss Margaret Guider took the steamer "G. W. Hill" Wednesday as far as La Crosse on her return trip to Wauconia, Minn., where she is one of the corps of instructors of the high school.

Societies about the county will hold a Christian Endeavor rally meeting at Waukon September 27. Three societies of Endeavorers are represented in Allamakee—Lansing, Postville and Waukon, and an especially interesting convention is promised.

The remains of the late Peter Larson were laid at rest today. Funeral services being conducted from the home, Rev. Kezal of the German Presbyterian church officiating, with interment at Oak Hill by the side of his former wife.

PACK GRAPES IN SAWDUST

The grape growers of California have recently enlarged tremendously the possibilities of their market. They have learned how to ship the grapes half way around the world and to sell them in competition with the grapes from Southern Europe. The secret lies in the method of packing; the Californian grape growers have discovered that coarse redwood sawdust is a cheap and effective substitute for the granulated cork that is used in packing the Spanish grapes.

Practically all the Californian grapes have heretofore been marketed in splint baskets inclosed in slatted crates. The new package is a tight drum of thin cottonwood, lined with heavy strawboard. The smaller size will hold about eleven pounds of grapes, and the larger thirty-three to thirty-six pounds. The filler used is a coarse redwood sawdust, cleaned of dust and slivers. It has been demonstrated that this sawdust is as effective as cork, if not more so. The prices paid for grapes thus packed are sufficiently high to cover the additional cost.—The World's Work.

NEW VARIETY A LARGE YIELDER

MADISON, Sept. 4.—While the common varieties of rye average 17.5 bushels per acre, the pedigree strain being grown this season by members of the Wisconsin Experiment association is averaging 30.5 bushels per acre, according to reports received by R. A. Moore, secretary of the association.

Because of its stiff straw and its abundant yields, the pedigree rye has met with favor among farmers and many of them will increase their acreage this coming year. Yields of 35 to 40 bushels per acre are quite common on good soils.

Since it costs no more to raise pedigree grain than the ordinary variety and since the increased yield of the former more than pays the farmer for the larger outlay for his seed, the use of such grain is becoming quite general. The introduction of an improved type of rye is but one of the aids to agriculture.

SAYS DE MUMM DIED AS A SPY

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Telling a thrilling story of personal experiences which included the enforced witnessing the execution of a German spy who, she says, was Henry De Mumm, the multi-millionaire wine merchant, Miss Helen Vincent, an American singer, landed from the steamer St. Paul today.

"On August 12, early in the morning while I was in the home of a friend in Versailles," said Miss Vincent, "we were awakened by the clatter of horses' hoofs. I went to the window and saw half a troop of cavalry escorting a closed carriage. The carriage stopped almost under my window. The soldiers dragged a man out of it. He struggled desperately, but was bound and his eyes bandaged. Then he was stood up against a wall. He bitterly protested against his eyes being covered and I could not look longer because of the horror of it. Then I heard a volley. Later I learned that the victim was Henry De Mumm and that it had been found that he was a German spy, and in his possession when searched were copies of the French mobilization plans."

The gang down to the grocery store just got the Mexican war settled and was preparin' to go back to work their farms when the trouble in Europe broke out. It don't look as though there would be scarcely any farm work done in this locality this summer.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD
BY HAL SHERIDAN

Harassed by the Braves who had nosed them out of first place, the Giants fell back on their main line of defense—Christy Mathewson—and the old master returned them a winner over the Dodgers in the first game of a twin bill.

Stimulated by the victory, McGraw's crew supported big Jeff Tesreau brilliantly and flashed under the wire a winner again, passing the Braves and taking the lead.

The slugging of Dooin's Phillies caused the downfall of the Braves, Tyler being unable to withstand the bombardment.

The Pirates handed the pennant dreams of Cardinal fans an awful jolt by beating Huggins' crew twice. Heavy hitting was responsible.

Foster and Wood, pitching masterly ball, each beat the Mackmen.

10 to 3. The double victory elevated the Pirates from eighth to fifth place in the league.

OHIO STATE MEN REPORT FALLBACK

Coach Wilce to Handle Ohio Team; Will Take Charge Soon; Schedule Is Hard

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 4.—Ohio State university is getting ready for the toughest schedule in her football history this fall. Indications are that the opening of the season, October 3, will find the scarlet and gray ready to face the problem.

The state team will open with Ohio Wesleyan and play Case at Cleveland; Illinois at Urbana and Wisconsin at Columbus on succeeding Saturdays, October 31 is an open date. On the following Saturdays, games with Indiana at Indianapolis and Oberlin and Northwestern at Columbus, are scheduled. With the exception of Wesleyan, where Butler of Wisconsin, may however, work up a good eleven, every team on the schedule looms strong.

Coach Wilce will take charge of his team September 20, five days after the university school year opens. Probably a week before school opens, however, the State squad, or part of it will be engaging in informal humbering up work. Captain Graf is already on hand to see that the 23300 is started without a hitch.

State will lose Center Trautman, Guard Geisemans and Halfbacks Briggs and Willman, all mentioned for all-state positions last year. Geisemans was mentioned by some all-western critics. To replace these a score of likely freshmen of last year are available.

SCHIEBERL IN TRAINING FOR SUPERIOR BOUT

"Peanuts" Schieberl, the clever little 122 pounder who is conducting a boxing school here, yesterday began his training for his bout at Superior the middle of the month. He may be seen at work conditioning at his gymnasium at the Safford establishment on Third street this and tomorrow evenings.

Schieberl is preparing for a strenuous year, as he leaves for Chicago inside of a month to take on a number of scrappy youngsters there.

He expects to make La Crosse his headquarters this winter, leaving town only as necessary to fill bills out of town. He is anxious to appear before local fans.

BYERS SUGGUMBS TO SKILL OF TRAVERS

Former Title Holder Eliminated in Second Round of National Title Play at Manchester

MANCHESTER, Vt., Sept. 4.—The former titleholder was eliminated in the second round of the national amateur golf championship tournament when Eben M. Byers of Allegheny fell before the deadly strokes of the four-time champion, Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, Francis Ouimet of Woodland also won heavily over W. J. Howland, Jr., of Chicago. Other favorites to win were Walter J. Travis of Garden City, W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, and Robert A. Gardner of Hinsdale, national champion of 1900.

Bob Gardner is the sole remaining hope of the west in the championship. The Chicago district titleholder and ex-national king came through the second round by eliminating F. A. Martin of Ekwonok.

In gaining an advantage of 2 up over Howland in the morning, Ouimet made a 77. He might easily have been three or four shots lower had he been able to control his drives. As the match advanced, Ouimet's shots became more deadly and he won by 4 and 3.

Microbes in the Air.

Many living microbes float in the air of dwellings, but in houses which are old, overcrowded and dirty the numbers are very much higher. These come from the most part from the sides and floor and not from persons, but they are much more numerous when the dust is disturbed than when the room has been quiet for a short time.

BUTTER TO BE OF ALL COLORS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Lavender, scarlet, red, white and blue and in fact any color or combination of colors may grace the American dinner table soon. This is hinted at in an official bulletin by department of agriculture experts.

That the color of "Bossy's" butter may be regulated and changed by the food given milk cows is asserted as a scientific fact. If as much progress in determining the color of cow's butter by the food given them is made during the next decade, scientists think it not beyond the realm of hope to feed cows so that butter of the hues of Joseph's coat may naturally result.

Color pigments found in cows' fodder is responsible for the assertion that the color of the butter is determined largely by the provender. Many color pigments are found in green plants.

color, however, is assured by the fact that the pigment known as carotin, which is yellowish in hue, is found to predominate in green stuff. They make yellow pigments in milk known as "xanthophylls." These pigments pass directly from the feed into the milk, explaining the fact that fresh grass and carrots, largely impregnated with carotin, increase the yellowishness of butter.

Green corn will produce a highly yellow butter, the department experts declare. Bleached clover hay and yellow corn are devoid of yellow coloring and when fed cows produce a pale colored butter.

"It is indisputably true," the department declares, "that the breed of cows also influences the color of milk fat, but vary the rations and there will be a correspondingly variation in the color of the milk fat in each breed."

Jersey and Guernsey cows give the yellowest milk fat, department experts declare, even to the extent of causing the buying public to look with suspicion upon their products

because of its being apparently too yellow.

Rats Great Disease Carriers.
Three different animals are plague carriers—the tarbagon or marmot (a rodent) of the trans-Baikal region, roughly embracing great sections of Siberia; the ground squirrel of California; the wild rat of Africa. The greatest mischief is done by rats that get into ships and then go ashore at the ports of call. The rats are bitten by fleas and the fleas in turn bite man. Rats also are carriers of leprosy, and it is thought that they may fall victims of cancer, both of which they can transmit to man.

Thackeray and Dickens.
Thackeray was always very jealous of the popularity of the novels of Dickens. While from a literary standpoint Dickens does not eclipse Thackeray, yet his works have always been the bigger sellers of the two.

SLUM CONDITIONS OF NEW YORK BAD

Writer Tells of Life on the East Side During Hot Nights; Babies Can't Live

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—A street full of frowns bedraggled men and women, of countless babies with limbs and bodies uncovered shamelessly to the faint slants of moonlight that penetrate down through a fetid stinking atmosphere, of mothers cramped on curbstones, on boxes or in doorways like dejected Magdalen, of red faced or white faced men, their heads thrown back as with sleepless eyes they plead for the breezes that seldom comes—

The east side on a hot summer's night. You may have seen it. If you have, you probably went home with contentment in your heart for your own lot, no matter how mean a lot it was. Every citizen in the United States ought to see this great east side. He'll appreciate the more why the Mafia exists, why there are bomb throwers and why with misery comes crime.

A hot night means lives lost on the east side. It is incomprehensible why east side babies live anyway. They can't sleep indoors these hot nights. Their mothers take them out to the sidewalks. They are bedded in the mother's arms, on two chairs, in a box—anywhere. The street is alive with them. A mother, clad above the waist in a single garment that leaves her arms bare from the shoulder calmly nurses her youngster in the flickering gaslight. A 4-year-old boy, cherubic in spite of his dirty face and hands, plays happily, clad in an all too short little shirt.

The men, most of them worn by manual labor or long hours in dingy stores, lie prostrate on the sidewalk, in the doorways, or else pillow their heads and bodies on bedding on the fire escapes. A pushcart wends its way silently through this city of the dreadful night—silently that the sleepers may not be disturbed, but with an eye for business. For it seems that the east side always eats. Some one will spend a few pennies for queer foreign sausages or for sticky fruits, or defy germs in a sweetish sickly looking lemonade. A few of the men will sit on the curbstone near the corner family saloon and quaff huge goblets of beer. All is very quiet, considering that there are hundreds on the street. In the shadow of a stoop a mere girl and a boy will be wooing, in full sight of all neighbors. They marry young on the east side. There is scant chance for quiet tete-a-tetes.

DOES ADVERTISING INCREASE LIVING?

The educational committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America has seen that a business which in America calls for an expenditure every year of double the cost of digging the Panama canal must fully justify itself to the public. Naturally so vast a sum raises the suspicion that it may have some part to bear in the high cost of living. Advertisers challenge this suspicion and point to the fact that advertised articles have maintained the same price levels, despite the general tendency to higher levels, and they say that this has been possible through larger sales secured by advertising. The Educational committee is surveying this whole subject and it announced at the recent convention of advertising clubs at Toronto that during the coming year it would add to its activities the work of a committee that would seek to make all the public know how it is being served through advertising. —Herbert S. Houston, in the August World's Work.

Home-Made Ointment.

The following is a recipe for a simple home-made ointment, which is excellent for applying to cuts and bruises: One teaspoonful each of olive oil, turpentine, spirits of camphor and coal oil. Of course, any amount desired may be made, but the proportion must be as given here.

UNCLE SAM IS COOL IN WAR

Government Is Keeping Thousands in War Zone Comfortable and Keeping Peace at Home

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—In these uncertain war days Uncle Sam is about the only great world figure who is keeping his head. Uncle Sam today is standing not only for peace at home, but he is doing everything he can to keep the 100,000 Americans scattered throughout the European war zone content and safe.

As soon as he saw the first war cloud coming across Europe he established in the state department a bureau of information and immediately notified his 235 diplomatic and consular representatives in the warring countries to "look out for Americans."

In Washington the headquarters were established. A large room on the first floor of the department used by the consul bureau was designated to act as clerks and the latch string was hung out, the country was notified, and since then the bureau has been swamped.

First it undertook to inform relatives or friends in the United States of the whereabouts and condition of their relatives or friends traveling in Europe. If a business man in Springfield had relatives in Germany he asked the state department to cable the American consul at the station nearest the last stopping place of the tourist. This the state department did and when the reply came the business man was notified immediately.

Few hours passed, however, until the bureau discovered it would have to come to the financial relief of the Americans. Telegrams poured into this country that traveler's checks of the tourists and their letters of credit would not be cashed. It became necessary for friends and relatives in this country to come to their assistance and semi-official banking business was started.

EMPIRE WITHOUT ONE RAILROAD

From the eastern shore of the Caspian Sea, a little railroad runs away to the east, through Turkistan, with a branch to the border of Afghanistan. From the eastern terminus of this little railroad there is a gap of several thousand miles across most of Turkistan and the Chinese Empire, in which there is not a mile of railroad either east, west, north or south. In area, that region is greater than the United States. In population it far outweighs this country. Some day, no doubt a great trunk line will be built through it as part of the new Chinese and Russian system of Asiatic roads.

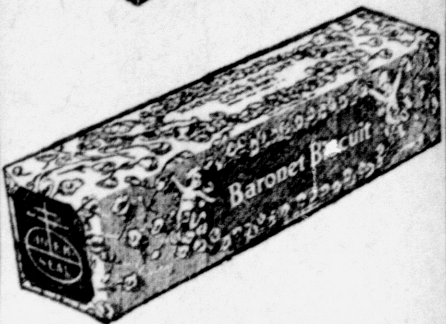

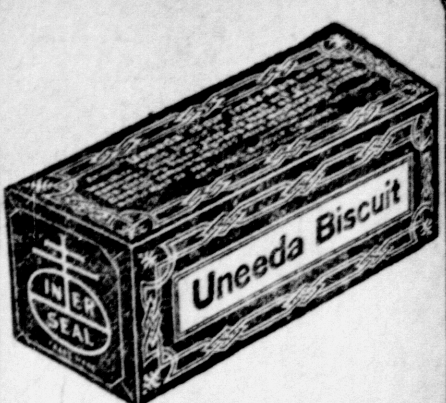

That is, however, too big a project for any individual in the world to grasp. What is more, it seems to be a settled fact that, on account of the mixed political relationships and the strong international jealousies of European and Asiatic countries, there is no room for private enterprises to seize the great opportunities for railroad exploitation and development with lines in these unoccupied spaces of Asia.

The Julian Calendar.

The great Julius Caesar, B. C. 45, was the first to reform the calendar by ordering that every year whose date number was exactly divisible by four should contain 366 days, and all other years 365 days. It was Caesar who changed the beginning of the year from the first of March to the first of January. The Julian calendar continued in use until A. D. 1587.

Trees 700 Years Old.

Observations and records as to the general age of trees have shown that the pine tree attains 700 years as a maximum length of life; 425 years is regarded as the allotted span of the silver fir; the larch lives, as a rule, about 275 years; the red beech, 245; the aspen, 210; the birch, 200; the ash, 170; the elder, 145; the elm, 130.

JAPS OCCUPY SEVEN ISLANDS

TOKIO, Sept. 4.—Japanese forces have occupied seven islands about the German province of Kiau Chau. Landings were made without resistance and the troops took full possession. The Kiau Chau waters had been heavily mined by the Germans and mine sweepers are now engaged clearing all passages for ships. One thousand mines have so far been removed.

There is many a man who is called a "merchant prince," but who is really a merchant quince.

Belgian Troops Marching to Battle at St. Trond

This is a photograph of actual war. Belgian troops were being hurried to St. Trond after the place was attacked by Germans. They faced the German troops in this instance and drove them out. But it was only one of those temporary setbacks. Since the photograph was taken the German hundreds of thousands have overrun all Belgium except the towns of the extreme northwest.
